JEHNIK JUNEIANA: Talks on Woman's Topics This volume of excerpts from the writings very piquant, (ruthful, and sensible woman been published in neat form, and should be welcomed by all the ladies, for they can learn much from one of their own sex who thinks and has the happy facility of putting her thoughts upon paper. We know many good female talkers, but we bave very few really useful writers of that sex. The Boston Post, in a highly appreclative article, eays that "her book onght to be circulated, and young ladies troubied with sentiment ought to read It, and mothers, too, will learn something; In fast they will learn more than the zirls, for they hardly, if ever, know so much as the girls do; at least they are more conscious of the necessity of learning. Take one point on which she touches - she only touches any point, but those few tonches are full of bons meat and sinew as any discourse can be an hour leng. The point we mean is that of cocking. She langhs at the recommendations of an Archbishop, who Implored the jupils of a fashionable seademy to add the department of the cuisine to their system of education. Of course they would learn nothing from such a department. They must go into the kitchen to learn cookingthere is the only place. It is as she says: The penins of pots and kettles is as coy and exactiog, as lofty and imperions as any genius of the muses, and requires worship in har own temples, and incense barned upon her very altar, before she will yield one iota of for her treasures. Such homage a not always agreeable to pay. Only ost ardent votaries will penatrata into great thoroughfares to the finest fine art of pork and beans in their beat flavor. 'And again, Jennie niges the necessity of oking to the comfort of a family. Sha sees go benuty in delicate hands that can't kneed the dough nor turn the steak. If anything in the world will make a man miserable it is the want of a good relishable dinner, and here she hits the truth. She warms the ladies, the wives, that i' they desire loves of bonnets, and lets of small change in the shape of fives and tens, they must ecok the best of dishes and regale their bushauds with them. This may be very homely advice, but it has more to do with the comfort of a family than all the fine arts of music and dancing and erocheting and fide etick generally in the world. A woman who can't command every minutize of the process, from raw beef to the wall flavored dish, is not worth a husband." The entire criticism of our contemporary

It is in itself a healthy place, comparatively spenking, and, with the assistance of the kind-hearted gentlemanly surgeons in charge, many a poor fellow who arrived there at the point of death has gradnlly become alrenger and again able to ep cure these hardships and stern realities which are so intimately connected with a soldier's career. I travelled in company with the galant Captain Denlg, of Goussal Thomas's sand, and a commune of his, a roont just returned from Mooile, Als. On arriving at the Chattabacchie river, we were more strongly tempted by the entitiees of tenders to swim across than to march over the pontoon bridge which spane the river for the accommonation of wagon trains and foot passengers. We, however, so far checked cur rising impulses as to content ourselves by merely bathing la its cool, refreshing waves. The Chat.abcochle is a narrow, deep river, and a her singgish in its movements. It is surrounded by rocky bluds, coveral by a thick growth of forest trees, and presenting. high hy-pic ulerque superrance. By the President, WM. H. SEWADD, Secretary of State, While the whole nation will feel impressed with the duty of complying with the President's request and of devoting this day to the work of reverential humiliation and earnest prayer, it is not to be regarded as evincing any feeling of doubt as to the success of the mirous communications is the following: Ioyal arms over the wicked rebellion. On the contrary, wo will go into the presence of our Heavenly Father with an abiding faith in his goodness and mercy, but with bumble acknowledgment that our national sius bave heen great, and a feeling of security that He this day we can ask the protection of Heaven for those who are daily and hourly imperilled In the vast armies of the nation, and implore Its deliverence from battle and murder, and from sudden death. Everyone who has a husband, father, son, brother, or dear friend, and all who love their country, can humble themselves before the footstool of God, and pray that he will return them to their homes, and give peace to the suffering and bleeding nation. The day should be universally kept in sincerity and penitentially, and our conduct prompted by humbled and contrite hearts. It pended and our churches opened for religious

The St. Louis Republican, in speaking of gnerillas, says: "Wo know of no pnnishment too severe for them. Nor are those who willingly harbor, protect, or in any way encontage guerillas deserving of much leniency. The only difference we can see in the relative qualities of the two classes, is that while both are sneaks, one is more sneaking than the other; and the difference is not to the credit of the aiders and abettors. Guerilla warfare, er bashwhacking, must be put down at every cost; but there are agencies that may he profitably used in conjunction with military force for this object. Every man has his infinence. Let the practice referred to be generally and sincerely reprobated; let every means bo taken to communicate to the authorities the whereabouts of wandering bands; and let all unite in the determination that these malefactors, these thieves, robbers, honse-hurners, and murderers shall be warred upon to the death."

The great practical difficulty in carrying out the suggestions of our St. Louis contemporary, is that those Union men who communicate the whereabouts of wandering bands to the Federal authorities, if thoy are not fully protected by those authorities, will be ill treated, if not mardered, for giving such information. Rocent orders which were issued to compel restitution at the hands of rebel sympathizers for all injuries done to loyal citizens, were, upon their promnigation, thought to constitute an admirable plan for putting a step to all outrages upon the property of private and non-combatant citizens, but this oxpectation has not been realized. Thus the sum of $2,200 was recently levied upon and collected from certain citizens of Henderson in cur State to pay for the depredations of guerilla bands, but in every instance the money was returned by those to whom it was altotted to those from whom it had been collected. It was not because the sufferers did not want restitution, for many of them were greatly distressed by their losses, but they knew very well that as soon as Fedoral protoction was withdrawn other rebel bands, then prowling about in the vicinity, would re-enter tho town and retaliate again npon those who had originally been despoiled. There is no sure way of compensating the loyal for losses thus sustained, until the authority of the civil law is re-established and its ordinances can be enforced without resort to military assistance, and any attempt to do it now would be almost sure to bring additional trouble upon those for whose benefit it was made.

Instances are daily brought under our observation of the terrorizing influences of these maranding hands in the localities where they rendezvous. We have letters detailing petty raids, arson, theft, and even homicide, which come to us anonymously because the writers say that to give names would be at the peril of their lives, as the mails are not safe, and a loyal informer is hunted down with the most vindictive activity. It will thus be seen that it is very easy for those who are surrounded by all the protection of provost guards and live in strongly garrisoned cities to call upon those who reside in insurrectionary or overrun districts to communicate to the anthorities the whereabouts of wandering bands, but, if any man residing within the distance of from five to ten miles of this city were to do so, be would stand a good chance of having his dwelling burned over his head, his crops given to devastation, and, if he escaped with life, or his family without insult, it would be by extraordinary good luck. There is no want of desire on the part of loyal citizens everywhere to "unite in the determination that these malefactors, thieves, robbers, bouseburners, and murderers shall be warred upon to the death," but there is not sufficient and its subrequent abandonment has always under the lofty title of Wm. "THE MOST UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL."-The public is somewhat familiar with the name of Wm. Cornell Jewett. Ho in fact is public property. To he sure, he is a fool of the first water, bis folly being equalled only by bis impudence, but this is neither here nor there. The public is not the only proprietor of trumpery. Besides, Jewett is probably a well-meaning mnn; indeed, being so terrible a fool, be ought to be exceedingly well-meaning, if the law of compensation is not entirely mythical. But it mutters not how this may be. Those who are enrious on the point can doubtless gratify their curiosity by appealing to Jewott's old and intimate and confidential friend Horace Greeley. But to return.

Jewett, as we have said, is public property; but at least one of the joint proprietors, who not only is the principal one but actually made the investment on behalf of the company, has got very sick of the bargain, and is trying to rid bimself of bis interest in the possession. Nay, he is trying to repudiate all charo in the proprietorchip. We refer to A. Lincoln, who recently authorized the publication of the following card in the Washington Chronicle:

As an irresponsible person named Jewett, who has recently been acting as an agent and messenger for the rebel emissaries in Canada, is assiduously laboring, and apparently with some encoust to croate the impression that be acta by virtue of a certain implied understanding or connection with the Executive Mansion, we deem it not Improper to state that he has never received from the President the slightest recognition; that Major Hay, at Niegara, expressly declined to meet him, and that the only letter he has ever received from the Executive office, in answer to his voln-

WM. CORNELL JEWETT.

As this is the last of Jewett, we will proncunce his funeral oration, with the permission of his chief assassin, pledging ourselves not to blame him, but merely to speak all the good we can davise of his victim. We eseccially promise not to be at all incendiary: Friends, Leaguers, countrymou, isud us

yeur oars;
Wo come to bury Jowett, not to praise him.
The evil that man do lives after them; The good is old interred with their bones; So ist it be with Jeweti. The noble Liucolu Hath to,d you Jewett was officious; If it were so, it was a grievous fault; And grievously has Jewett answered ii. Here, nader leave of Liucoln, and the rest, (For Liucolu is an honorable usn; So are they all honorable men;) Come we to speak in Jewett's funeral. He was your friend, faithful and just to you; But Lincoin says ho was officious: And Lincoin is an honorable man. Ho hath brought many offers home to you. Whose profits did the general purpose ald. Did this in Jewett seem officious?

When that the true have frowned, Jawett hath Obliusion should be made of sterner stuff: Yet Lincoln says ho was officious; And Lincoln is an honorable man. You alldld sea that at the Olifton House, They thrice presented him a martyr's crown, Which he did thrice refuse. Was this officious? Yet Lincoln seys he was officious; And sare he is an heatrable man. We speak not to disprove what Lincoln spoke,

But here we are to speak what we do know. You all did prize him once, not without cause; What cause withholds you then to mourn for him O judgment, thou art fied to brutish heasts, Our heart is in the coffiu there with Jewett, And we must pause till it come back to us. Our heart having come back to ns, we wil roceed: If you have tears, prepare to shed thom now. You all did know this mantle: we remain ber The first time over Jewett put it on; 'Twas on n summer's evening in his room; That day he overcame the British:— Look l in this place, ran Forney's dagger through See, what a reut the onvious Raymond made: Through this the well-beloved Lincoln stabbed: And, as he plucked his cursed you away, Mark how the pride of Jewett followed it; As rushing out of doers, to be received If Liucolu so unkindly kuocked, or no; For Lincoln, as you know, was Jewett's angei: Judgo, O yau gods, how dearly Jewett loved him!

Ingratitude, more strong than traitor's arms, Quite vanquished him: then burst his mighty And, is his mentle mutiling up his face, Even at the base of Pompey's statue, Which all the while blow puff, great Jewott fell.
O. what a fall was there, my countrymeu! Then we, and you, and all of us fell down, While bloody treason thousand over us.

This was the most unkindest cut of all: For when the nobie Jewett saw him stab,

O, now you weep; and, I percoive, you feel The dlut of pity: these are procious drops. Kind souls, what, weep you, whou you but behold Our Jewett's vesture wounded? Here we beg to suspend the oration nutil the corpse arrives, when, if not prevented by military interference, we Will ruftle up your spirits, and put a toague In every wound of Jewett, that should move The stones to rise and mutlay.

Until then we entreat all things animate and innnimate to keep cool and quiet. We particularly ask Jewett's particular friends to bc patient. And nmong these we particularly appeal to Horace Grecley, George N. Sanders, and Louis Napoloon. Let them all carh their indignation. A "deed of dreadful note" bas been done, but, give us a fair chance, and wo will avenge it, with the assistance of Shakepeare. If we can't, George Francis Train can. If be can't, the immortal "J. This collation, which we take from the columns of an exchange, presents the unfaith. fulness of Mr. Lincoln in a very clear light. We ask the loyal men of the Union to contemplate the collation. But we cannot honestly nik them to swallow it. It is indeed a rather cold collation for patriots. It is not the entertainment to wblch they wore in-

Whatever may be said against the tail o the abolition ticket for the Presidency, nobody can justly deny that the tail is entirely worthy of the head. This, however, is the best that can be said of Andy Johnson; and, contemptnously as we think of him, we are not care that it is not the worst.

Affairs at Petersburg -The result o General Grant's mining operations and assault at Petersburg is a bloody repulee. We assume, of courso, that the manly way is to look the facts square in the face, instead of trying to cover them up by falsehood. The consola tion gained by pretending that disaster is vic-tory, is short-lived, and is dearly purchased by the neglect of the means necessary for re-trieve the disaster. Our troops were harled upon the inner line of intrenchments as strong as the one that had been mined at one point. The black troops appear to have been ent on au impossible attempt. That rate of expenditure of this precious material which might not be fatal to final success in such a disparity of forces as at Vicksburg, will not do when he is contending with Lee's army. The country can furnish the men to put down this rebellion, but it is time to bring military skill into play, instead of blind slaughter. And it is believed to be possible to military genius to bring Leo's army to battle on fair terms, instead of draw-

DETAILS OF THE MUROER OF UNION PRISON-ES ON THE CUMBERLAND RIVER .- On our first age we publish this morning a letter from larksville, Tenn., giving some of the facts of ne capture and murder of Union prisoners n the Comberland river. We have since carned the details more fully, and they may e considered correct, as thoy were obtained m headquarters of the post commander of sville. The scout sent out from the city

lonel Smith, on Monday morning last, arch after Lien'enant Gamble, and furish him safe conduct into our lines, returned arly on Tucsday merning, having been suc- saving his money and horse. The Docound scereted in the woods not far from where he made his escape from the gang of and another through the coat just above the illanous cutthroats. He was pale, almost | shoulder. This affair occurred in the neighlevoid of clothing, and appeared to have snfered much in dodging through the brush trying to elnde the watchful eyes of those ent on hie marder.

He informed the ecout that he had been obbcd by the guerillas of his pants, boots, watch, aud Eeventy-five dollars in money. After crossing the Cumberland river, and ravelling about six miles in a southerly direction, the guerillas halted and arranged their prisoners in line, telling them that they were going to parole them. After a short consultation, the leader of the gang, who was called by his men Capt. Porter, ordered the members of his gang to draw their pistols, saving, "We have but one way of paroling Federal prisonere, and that is with our ravolvers." The whole party advanced in line, and ommenced rapidly firing. The Lientenant said that he well knew that there was no hope for life only in precipitate flight, ee he started on the full run. A velley of pistel shots was red at him as he disappeared in a narrow strip of brush, and another as he paesed an pen space a short distance beyond. Forone of the balls etruck him, and he od his escape. He was forced to lie woods, night and day, until the scont lieved him on Monday afternoon. Ho pioted the cavalry to the spot where the execuion had taken place, and three dead bodles, riddled with balls, were found stretched on he green sward. On the breast of each was planed a strip of paper, dated July 30, with the following words written in pencil-mark 'npon them: These boys are executed in retaliation for friends hung in Nashvillo." The bodies much decomposed when found, and were onried apon the spot. One of the dead was soldier of company U. 83d Illinois voluneers, named Ira Butler; another was Chrisopher McCarty, a boy sixteen years old, emloyed es a teams.er in the Quartermester's epaiment. His parents reside in Abington, linois. The third body was that of a laborr in the employ of the Government at Nashille. The body of the fourth prisoner could not be found, and it is possible that he sucseded in making his escape. He was also citizen in the employ of the Government. When the men were first takon prisonors, Lieut. Gamble informed the gnerilles that ont two of the five were soldiers, and hegged that tro citizens might be released; but the conndrels would not lieten to his words. Tho execution was one of the darkest transtions of blood that ever disgraced a civiled age, and it was perpetrated with all the onchalence of hearts fiendish and wholly orrupted. There is much speculation as to who the marderers are. We hear various names mentioned, but, as they are mere peculations, we will not, without further roof, irecribe their names on the roll so enant Gamble says that they called ief by the name of Porter. The ends referred to in the note pinned to the osem of each dead man are presumed to ba the gnerilles recently hung at Nashville, one of whom was named Goisett, a notorious robber and murderer ef Cheatham county, Tonossee. His career was marked with the rkest crime, as he was proved guilty before military commission of the mnrder of eral peaceablo, anoffonding citizens. Every fort will be made to hunt down the fiends gallty of the inhuman ontrages of Saturday vening last. They are a shame and a curse o humanity, and should be blotted ont of existence.

Yesterday morning, the notorions has been under close confinement at barracks prison on a charge of inciting rehel sympahizers of Lonisville to organize thomselves into a band of guerillas, was forwarded to Lexington in irous to receive his inst deserta at the hands of a court-martial. In the afternoon, young Eilson, who was lucarcerated a few days ago for having joined a gang of cutthroats and gnerillas, and Robert Scarlot and Wm. Shields (to whose shameful proceedings we alluded in yesterday's issue), were all heavily ironed and sent to Lexington for BASSACKS ITEMS .- Yesterday's receipts at the Barracks were very light, consisting of only twenty convalcements from Taylor Barracks, and eighteen men from various points. Seventy-th:ee convalescents, and four prisers were transferred to Nashville, three gow, Lentucky, three convalescents to Mnnfordville, and one to Frankfort.

Twenty privates of the 109th colored regiment were forwarded to Cinclnnati, and nine men to Columbus, Ohio, to be mustered out of REBEL PRISONERS .- On Tuesday night, two andred and eighty-nine rebel prisoners arrived in the city on the Nashville train. The letachment was made up of nine commissioned officers, one hundred and eighty prirates, captured, and one hundred deserters. The deserters will be permitted to take the oath of amnesty and sent across the Ohio river to remain during the war. Twelvo rebel commissioned officers were yesterday forwarded from Louisville to Johnson's Island. and two hundrod and ten enlisted men were transferred to Camp Chase.

Thomas Knoll was arrested on Tnesday afternoon, charged with making a violent assanit on a free negro boy by gonging both of his eyes ont. He had a partial examination before Judge Johnston yesterday mornng, and the case was continued until Friday next. He has been admitted to hail for his appearance in the sum of one hundred dollars.

Emma Morris was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing forty-two dollars in greenbacks from Jennie Grannen, living on Green street, above Shelby. Emma's house was searched and forty-one dollars of the money found in her possession. She was sent o jail to await trial.

Henry Kimble, who was arrested arged with the killing of Joseph Fanst on Saturday morning last, had an examination peforo the Police Conrt yesterday morning, and was found guilty of manslanghter.

Trains on the Nashville Railroad are very much crowded with travel now. The ways filled to overflowing, and ndreds of citizens at the different etations re daily refused admittance to the train.

ATTACKED BY THE GUERILLAS-NARROW SCAPE .- Dr. Wm. Reynolds, says the Nashville Press of yesterday, went to Wilson county everal days ago to purchase some mules. He onght them, eleven in number, and, on Mon day last, while on his way to Nashville, he was halted by eeven guerillas who demanded the mnles and a negro whom he had along riving them. Sitnated as he was, he had to ubmit to their demands. The victors then etired with the spoils, and the Dector started on his journey to Nashville, hat, before proceeding far, he was overtaken by two of the eams party, who, with drawn pisols, demanded his horse and what money had on his person. He told them he had but yery little money, which was in a relteround his body. The guer.llan threatened to shoot him if he did not delive: instantly. The Doctor put his hand behind nim as if in the est of taking off his belt, bu. astead of doing which, drew a pistol and red, killing one of the men on the spo. The other then commenced firing on him, end he continued to return the shots, bot's firing several times, when the querilla skedaddled, and the Doctor, glad of escape from hia clutches, made toward Nashville, ssful in its mission. The Lieutenant was | tor's coat shows that the skirmish was rather dangerous; two halls entered his coat-sleeve, berics have recently been committed.

borhood of Silver Spring, where other rob-A RAID INTO AUBURN-STORES ROBBED. About two o'clock yesterday morning, a gang of horec-thieves and robbers, eaid to number twenty men, under the leadership of a notorions sconndrel named Harper, made a raid into Auburn, a railroad station on the Memphis branch road, eighteen miles below Bowllng Green, and startled the elecping villagers from their quietnde. Stores were broken open and robbed of goods to the amount of $3,000. The principal legers are Gordon & Downy and Thompson & Morton. Many c the citizens were robbed of their personal ef fec's. The robbers were very rough in their treatment of the citizens. They caught a negro man, stripped him of all his clothing, and searched bis pockets, but only found in them a silver half dollar. They swore that this would not pay them for the trouble they had taken with the darkey, so they flogged him severely, and drove him from the town in a etale of andity, as they said, because the d-d fool did not have in his possession something more valuable of which they could rob him. The gang did not seem to have any desire to interfere with the railroad, as it was not interrupted in the least. The thieves carried their plandor away with them on horsehack. They left before it began to grow light in the direction of Franklin, on the Nashnille rallroad. A FORTUNATE Escape.-During the early pert of the week, three men calling them selves Lovi Pruett, Jen. Mnrphy, and William Maxwell resolved to inflict severe hodily inpries npon a well-known citizen of Louisvil e. In retaliation for certain bad treatment alleged to have been exercised by said citizen toward one of their comrades. Dr. Preuss, who keeps a drug-stere on Sixteenth and Market, was reported as the man; and, after arming themselves with pistols and clubs, they paid him an unceremonions, visit, terminating in a different manner than the cowardly sconndrels entleipated. Upon entering the store, their first inquiry was for beer, wheroupon tho Doctor very politely informed them that he never kept that article, but they could easily be accommodated at any of the neighboring greceries. Several throats followed, when the party was requested to leave, at which inneture a number of gentlemen arrived, when the rascals passed quickly ont, but were shortly afterwards arrested and lodged in jail. An examination was had yesterday morning be. ro his Honor Judgo Johnston, when they were all granted the privilege of increasing the city treasury fund, in addition to being bound over in $200 each to keep the peace for six months.

DAN CASTELLO'S GREAT SHOW .- With C 19. tello and his nnrivalled tronpe, fun, fro lc, wit, and wirdom rule the hour. The airy paviion is daily and nightly crowded wih enthnsiastic andiences, who appland the actors in their different parts. The double trapeze performance of the Hanlon Brothers is much admired, and their fearless daring commands rapt attention. Dan Castello is model clown. He is always original, and never descends to the low wit and personalitics so common to many clowns in the arena. His colebrated Ruesian horse Ozar never falls to be greeted on his appearance in the ring with storms of applanse. His skill, knowledge, and grace in his celebrated ropcskipping net, is a matter of wonder and much astonishment. In all of his porformances the horse exhibits marked sagacity and admirahle training. We regret that the engagement of the tronpe in our city is necessarily ientenant Harria, who for the past few days | brief, yet hope soon to greet the company on its carly return. We would advise everybody to take a holiday to-day, and go and witners the fairy wonders of the Castello troupe. Recollect the hour-one performance a o'clock P. M., and one at 8 P. M.

says the copions rains of the last few days have done an immenee amount of good to the corn and vogetable crops. Gratefully we ooght to acknowledge our thanks to the Giver of every good. The Jonnal says farmers who were in the city on Monday tooked cheerful and happy, in consequence of the rain, and everybody and everything rejoica together, and naturo wears new beauty. A letter from Versailles, Ky., says: "Wo have nad n most refreshing rain, and appearances ndicate n centinuance. After a drouth of six or eight weeks, its coming rejoiced our hearts and enconraged our despouding hopes in the rectoration of our corn crops. The children looked ont npon the descending drops, and one in ecstacy, eaid to his fatner.

Pappy will have roasting-ears now.'" STONEMAN'S RAID .- The Nashville Union of yesterday says: "Apparently well anthenticated but unafficial information has been received in this city, to the effect that Stoneman has encceeded in not only cutting the Macon Railroad, but also in defeating Wheeler, with the loss of 500 to 1,000 mcn, at Proctor's creek. The rebel dead and wounded fell into our hands. We have very little donbt but the information is correct. We have no further details"

Three of the rebels who figured as Niegara recently, ere, if we mistake not, defaulters to our government. Tucker has never settled the affairs of the Liverpool consulate, which he held under Bachanan, when the rebellion broke ont; Sanders is in the same condition as to the New York Navy Agency, and Thompson's complicity with the gigantic Indian bond swindlo of $300,000 when Secretary of the Interior, all will re-

Is it not then proper to press on the au

tion of every citizen, whatsoever may be his pelli ics, a calm perusal of this report? It is no partisan document if it be the truth, for the truth belongs to the whole country, and not to any party. Its perusal will prove of great benefit to any man who sincerely desires to inderstand our national position. It is not a thing of the past, but of the present. The work on General McClellan, accomplished under a tempest of abuse, has its visible value in the present condition of things. He was a man of no here temperary importance, was a man of no mere temporary importance whole war.

We have already noticed the fact that Warhington owed its safety three weeks ago, to the work of General McClehan two years go. That work he executed in person, while in the city. So long as he was in command it Washington, he insured the performance of all which his far-seeing eye and mind de termined to be necessary for the safety of the capital. So soon as he went to the field, the incompetency of the War Department the weakness of the President, and his submission to political influences, put a stop to th

heen carried out, the raid of Stonewall Jack-sta into the Shenandosh Valley would not have been possible, nor would any subsequenrald have been made. The report contains matter of the highest importance, at the present momerat, on this subject. Was inglea is in constant fits of treadant the President and his Cabinet would in

In the first place, wo reproduce the instruc-ous to General Banks, in the spring of 1862:

March 16, 1882. Sta: You will post your command in the vicinity of Manassas; intiench yourself strongly, and throw cavairy pickets well cut to the front.

Your first care will be the rebuilding of the railway from Washingtou to Manassas, and to Strasburg, in

It is already known how these orders were countermanded by the Washington powers.

After Banks's retreat down the vailey, and the celebrated Signewall Jackson raid in May, General McClellan, from his peniesalar carae, renewed his argent advice, in the following and entreaties. Here are extracts from the

and entreatics. Here are extracts from the letters:

Headquarters army of the Potters, and Joec 25, 1522-10-15 P. M. }

May-Gen. Halleck, General-m-chief, Wavin my as the moment is at hard for the advance of the stray, a question arises for the decision of the General-m-Chief; which, although perhaps implicitly decided by the President in the letter of the 18th, should be clearly presented by me, as I do not regard it as in my previous to determine it. This question is the extent to which the line of the Potomic should be guarded, after the army leaves, in order to ever Elanyland and Pennsylmula from invision by large or small parties of the energy. It will always be somewhat difficult to grant the lumm-size into of the river, owing to its great extent and the numerous passages which exist. It has long appeared to me that the best way of covering this line would be brocuping Front Royal, Strashurg, Wardensylla, and Morefield, at the debouches of the savoral valicys in which they are situated. These points or suitable places in their victuity, should be strongly intrenched and permanently held; one great, advantage of the strain and the first of the system would be the covering the Butthnore and Chief Ruilrad, and an essential party of the system would be the construction of the link of the strain of the system would be the construction of the link cide, and which I regard as beyond my province, is this:

let. Shull the safety of Harper's Ferry and the line of the Petomac be regarded as assured by the advance of the army south of the Blue Ridge, and the line let to take care of itself?

24. If it is comed necessary to hold the line or that hereinbefore indicated in advance of it, how mray troops shall be placed there, at what points, and in what numbers, and if what composition at each, and whence shall they be supplied, i. e., from this army or from other sources?

The officers of Hunter's comman i, ays the Wheeling Intelligencer of Tuesday, Lo have recently passed through the valley of the Shenandoah, state that the crops there are very ahundant, and that success in harvesting and conveying away even a fair proortion of them would further pay the enomy or all the toll and losses of their present exsecition. Our lesses in the fight at Winchesisr, they say, did not amount to one thousand, hough there was a large number of the troops who were so much worn by the fight, in addition to their previous privations and hardships, that they were not in efficient fighting or even retreating condition.

Of the circumstances of Mulligan's casualty, we learn that he was wounded while gallantly charging at the head of his brigade. He was hit twice-once in the ehoulder, and again in the thigh-and fell from his home. Though completely overpowered, his troops ralled around him, and end avored to gav. both him and the colors. While a squal of them were carrying him off the field, the rebels charged upon them, and, finding that they could not carry off both him and the colors, Muligan twice ordered them to leave him and eave the colors. Finally, they obeyed the hist part of the order, and sought to comply with the other part of it, but they had delayed too long. They were surrounded, and both the Colorel and their colors were capluted.

SHARER SREMON-NO. 6. BY H. L. BAUBS, SCUTH UNION, KENTUCKY. JULY 24 1864.

It would be a heinous erime in any person to uso his endeavors to rendor any human | spito of the hanns of tho priest. It has its being thhappy; but the surgeon who amputates a lin.b, although le preduces momentary suffering, yet the act is one of benevolence, a the pain thus inflicted is for the salvation of the hody. So it is with individuals, who mas times inflict in themselves temporary pain fo the sake of future comfort.

Isboring under a delusion. What I would have you understand from these words of Christ is, that in order to secure the true kappiness, previously spoten of, a rainful operation must first be endured. The adulterous eye must be placked on, and the hand that worketh iniquity must be amputated, and each

It is further arged, If we are not to be saved until we cease propasation, then all ought to cease, for certainly nil ought to be saved. If this cessation is necessary to salvation, it is then right for it to cesse. Hence it follows if all do right the earth will inevitably become a howling wilderness in less than two hundred years, and has God would be made to defeat his own

But cardor compels me to emit the resecuing to be good from the pramises assumed; and were the postulate true, it could not be faulted, but unluckily for them, their postulata is false; for, what is right for one man is not right for all men. There is only one thing in my knowledge which is right for all men; and hatisthis: It laright for all men to think, speak, and act in conformity with the highest light God has vonchsafed to them: that is, the highest they are capacitated to receivs. In so doing they obey God, and to obey God is to do right. This I think cannot successfully be resisted. It is either right tor a man to do what he conscientiously believes to be right, or else he must do the contrary, what he helievas to be wrong: If it is right 'or a man to do what he helieves to be wrong, then I graut the whole world is doing right;
